POLICE ARREST DRIVER AFTER CARS COLLIDE

Oliver Blythe Seriously

Street Crash

RALPH STURGEON FACING CHARGES

Four from Sebring Hurt
In Westville-N. Georgetown Rd. Collision

Six persons were injured, two seriously, in automobile accidents involving alleged hit-skip drivers in Salem and vicinity Sunday. One motorist, a Salem resident, is being held by police on two charges following an accident in which two persons were hurt.

Oliver Blythe, 50, of 613 Ohio ave., is in Salem City hospital, suffering from probable internal injuries and lacerations to his face, the result of a crash in which the auto driven by his son George, 22, was sideswiped by a machine driven by Ralph Sturgeon, 1541 East State st., about 1 p. m. Sunday.

The son was slightly hurt. The accident occurred on Franklin st. Sturgeon being arrested by Patrolman Ralph Beardon and lodged in jail pending arraignment on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and failing to halt his automobile following an accident.

Auto Turns Over
Sturgeon is reported by police to have been driving on the left side of the street when his car sideswiped the Blythe machine, forcing it off the thoroughfare. Blythe's machine turned over, pinning the occupants beneath the wreckage.

Patrolman Ralph Stoffer notified of the accident, took the victims to City hospital in the police ambulance and conducted investigations. Sturgeon, alleged to have driven away from the scene of the accident, was reported as the driver of the second car by witnesses. He was arrested 20 minutes later on East State st. by Beardon.

George Blythe filed charges against Sturgeon shortly after the accident. The latter will be arraigned in Mayor J. M. Davidson's court this afternoon.

Sebring Motorists Hurt
Four persons, all Sebring residents, were injured when automobiles driven by Lester Schreckengost, 35, and an unidentified North Georgetown motorist collided on the Westville-North Georgetown road at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Mrs. Margaret McDaniels is in Central Clinic hospital in a serious condition, suffering from body bruises, cuts and a probable fractured leg. Her husband, Robert McDaniels, and daughter, Marguerite, 20, sustained cuts and bruises. Schreckengost was injured about the face, four of his teeth being knocked out.

The car driven by the North Georgetown man, accompanied by another man, is said by police to have sideswiped Schreckengost's machine, forcing it from the road. They are alleged to have abandoned their car, wrecked in the collision, at the side of the highway and escaped through nearby fields. Township and county police are investigating. Arrests on charges of reckless driving are expected today.

AKRON'S MAIDEN HOP IS DELAYED; WEATHER 'BAD'

First Flight of Monster
Dirigible May Be Made Wednesday

(By Associated Press)
AKRON, Sept. 21.—Unfavorable weather forecasts caused the postponement today of the maiden flight of the navy zeppelin, "Akron".

Stays Within Docks
Scheduled to go up this afternoon the Akron was held within its docks on orders of the naval board of inspection and survey, which supplemented its order with the announcement that the first flight may be conducted Wednesday, Sept. 23, granted proper weather.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl said the greatest danger to the ship lies in the billowy cumulus clouds—known as "thunder heads". With them lurk line-squalls which tend to jerk a dirigible upward or downward, causing terrific strain to the framework. Weather forecasts are the means by which a dirigible crew can spot these vertical gusts in time to avoid them.

Few Hours Test
The first flight test, Commander Rosendahl said, will be merely to determine the ship's general airworthiness and will last only a few hours. Seventy-five hours of test flying will be climaxed by a 48 hour cruise before the ship is accepted by the Navy.

Goes to Convention With Canton Group

Ray Bartholomew, Salem band leader, will attend the American Legion convention at Detroit, Mich., today, as a member of the Canton drum corps.

At Detroit Bartholomew will be reunited with George Chappell, former Salem resident, now living in Miami, Fla., a member of the Miami drum and bugle corps.

Bartholomew, while in Florida two years ago, played in the same dance orchestra with Chappell. At Detroit they will be playing in rival corps, vying for honors in the competition which is expected by convention officials to attract drum and bugle corps from all sections of the United States. The Miami corps won championship honors in last year's Legion convention.

Chappell will be playing trumpet in the Miami corps while Bartholomew will play a clarinet with Canton. L. H. Baldinger, Salem, will also play with the Canton band.

Japanese Troops Off to Manchuria

TOKYO, Sept. 21.—More Japanese troops moved from the Korean border today toward Manchuria, where soldiers of the empire were holding the southern portion of the Chinese state in a military vise.

As the troop movements continued, the Japanese cabinet met in extraordinary session but adjourned without reaching any decision regarding the Manchurian situation. It was disclosed, however, that the war office and the foreign office were not in accord on Manchurian policy, and that the question had become the most acute in many years.

OHIO, INDIANA HIT BY QUAKE

Cities, Towns Jarred In Area from Zanesville
To Indianapolis

(By Associated Press)
More than a dozen cities and towns in portions of Ohio and Indiana were severely shaken last night by subterranean tremors, the most pronounced in that section since 1811 when the entire Ohio River valley was affected.

Although attended by intense excitement among householders, the quake did comparatively little damage and caused no loss of life.

Shelby County Hit
The quake reached its greatest intensity at the village of Anna, Shelby county. The community of 500 persons was without a whole chimney today, and every house and building was damaged to some extent.

Plastering in the Anna High school was shaken from the walls and both churches were damaged. The corner stones of the Lutheran church were jarred loose. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Starting about 6 o'clock, eastern standard time, and continuing over periods of time as great as 30 seconds the quake extended from Zanesville, Ohio, on the east to Richmond, Indianapolis, Connerville and Liberty, Ind., on the west.

Buildings were reported to have swayed in Springfield, Ohio, while distinct shocks were felt in Columbus, Lima, Cincinnati, Dayton, Cairo, West Minister, Sidney, Wapakoneta, and Gomer.

The disturbance, according to government geologists, was caused by the slipping of rock strata under the earth's surface. These geological readjustments occur sporadically in the middle west, but no serious damage has resulted in the past 100 years.

STOCK EXCHANGE IN LONDON CLOSES

Bank of England Rate
Goes Up to 6 Percent
From 4 1/2

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 21.—Abandoning the gold standard, raising the bank of England discount rate to 6 percent and closing all stock exchanges, Great Britain wrestled today with the most critical financial situation since the World war.

Brought back from his country home at Chequers by the Prince of Wales, Prime Minister MacDonald hastily convened a cabinet meeting last night and it was decided that the gold redemption act of 1925 should be suspended to halt alarming withdrawals of gold by foreign investors.

Parliament To Act
Parliament is expected to pass the enabling legislation tonight, after which it will go to King George for his approval.

The bank rate was raised from 4 1/2 per cent a figure which was set in July. It has not been up to 6 per cent since Oct. 31, 1929. The highest it has been since the war was 7 per cent and the highest during the war period was 10 per cent, set two days before the declaration of hostilities on Aug. 3, 1914.

Pending action by parliament, it was decided to close the London exchange and those throughout the country to hold the market stable during the transaction. It was emphasized that banks would be open as usual and that business would continue on a normal basis.

Action Only Temporary
Prime Minister MacDonald issued a statement calling attention to the fact that more than $1,000,000,000 had been withdrawn from the London market since the middle of July and that about $50,-

Gold Standard-- What It Means

(By Associated Press)
The gold standard of exchange is normally in use by virtually every civilized nation of the world. It is predicated on the fact that paper money of a country's bank of issue is redeemable in gold on demand.

The suspension of gold payments in Great Britain means that the Bank of England is not bound now under an act of parliament of 1925 to buy gold bullion of stipulated standards for three pounds, 17 shillings, 10 1/2 pence per troy ounce.

The act of parliament in effect resulted in the British pound sterling being equivalent normally to $4.89 5/8.

In the British foreign exchange market, recently with the pound sterling available below its gold parity, in relation to other currencies, it has been profitable for banks to acquire sterling pounds in the market, convert them into gold at parity, and then convert the gold into other currencies by exporting the gold.

The pound sterling was pegged in New York during the war at $4.76. It reached this artificial height by means of securities sales of dollars held by British citizens.

In 1919, it was decided to remove the support and the sterling dropped, until finally in 1919 it hit a new low of $3.19.

THE PRIMARY

Ohio's legislators didn't have enough vitality to loosen the throttling hold of the rough and tumble primary on government when they tried last season. For those who continue weak from the struggle, and for those who didn't fight, an Atlantic Monthly article by Oliver McKee is recommended.

One quotation, though insufficient to express the power of Mr. McKee's condemnation of the primary, is quoted:

"The bill of indictment against the primary contains many counts. It has increased the cost of candidacy; it has tended to promote the demagogic type of office-seeker, has swelled the tribe of politicians living off the public purse, has undermined party responsibility; and at a time when self government has been encompassed about as never before with difficulties, because of the increasing complexities of our economic and social structure, it has injected into the body politic a new form of mass action which has added materially to the embarrassments already existing..."

To Mr. McKee's list may be added another count: The primary has not done the things it was intended to do. It has not destroyed the power of the boss, the organizer, or the money bag. It has not given the common man a chance to hold office. It has, on the other hand produced campaigns in which aspirants for office spent as high as $735,000, and in which a man of moderate means had not the slightest chance. It has made candidates responsible to millionaire backers and blocs, instead of to a political party whose survival depended on sound principles and good candidates to administer them. It has made respectable men reluctant to go into competition with large fields of candidates where the freak's chance of winning was as good as the scholar's. It was fostered the power of organized minorities to the point where administrators and legislators are afraid to move without first consulting a hundred oracles to determine how severely they may be punished for offending this or that tight little group. It has made of the statesman a museum piece, and of the public official a jack-in-the-box.

The representative form of government, founded on the dual party system, cannot be congenial with the primary. One only will survive. Representative government is on the bottom of the heap, but it's still fighting and getting more encouragement from the thoughtful people after every tortured twist and turn.

PLENTY FOR ALL

Samuel R. McKelvie former farm board member and one-time governor of Kansas, suggests that the grain stabilization corporation's vast holdings of wheat be made available to the needy through community chests.

This would be a worthy idea, if it were not for one thing. What would happen to the saleable wheat thus displaced by the government's free bushels? Would welfare organizations match each bushel of "gift" wheat with a bushel of wheat, or its equivalent in bread, purchased from farmers? Would the hungry eat twice as much?

If not, the government would be giving wheat to consumers who, otherwise, would be buying it. There is in addition to the surplus held by the government, a surplus held privately. Until it is used the wheat market will continue in a serious condition.

The purpose of the millions of dollars spent by the farm board to stabilize the wheat market is to help the farmers. Would farmers be helped if the bread that welfare organizations are to distribute this winter were to be made from wheat distributed free by the government?

There is something wrong in the idea. Is it to be assumed that the purpose of the farm board is all wrong, and that it is right to give away the wheat held off the market to protect the farmers or the opposite? There's plenty of wheat for all—and what grim truth that is.

What Others Say

FARM RELIEF AS FORM OF DOLE

Too much government aid may be the cause of the farmer's present plight. The thought was expressed at a convention of fiscal officers of various states who discussed their problems at Biloxi. Controller General Beattie, of South Carolina, pointed out that greater agricultural production has been encouraged for years. The government has furnished seed, fertilizer and easy credit. Farm loans have been expanded until the farm has been hypotecated for more than its value. As a result there is a surplus of wheat, corn, cotton, vegetables and other crops.

Mr. Beattie did not refer to these grants as "dole." Because they are not given outright in the form of money it may have escaped his notice that they belong in the dole category. Nevertheless, they have been assets just as truly as if they were visible cash. They have constituted a subsidy which the farmer enjoyed without the exercise of initiative for acquiring them. Now he is paying the penalty for using them in excess of his needs and in excess of the power of the consumer's harvests.

The speaker was careful to point out that all government aids to the farmer are not necessarily of this character. The building of roads stimulates the flow of commerce for all classes. The erection of schools build up values for the benefit of future generations. Still, even these things might be overdone. Roads might be laid where there was little need for them; and certainly some schools might profitably resume the industrial situation to see if they are not turning out white collar workers beyond the market requirements. Education itself, of course, is probably not a commodity with which one could be overstocked. But vocational training is another matter, and there we do not seem at the moment to have effected the proper adjustments.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Diary of a modern Peppy: Out and twiggling Will Lengel jockeyed him into an apothecary to stand treat for a breakfast platter which he did with fair to middling grace. Yet seemed annoyed at my constant gazing into the mirror not understanding fine qualities may co-exist with such narcissism.

Back to my chambers and found Clara Walsh and Milton Green skimming through names in our guest book and surprised to find so many of this world and many others, once illustrious, passed to obscurity. And we thought the most distinguished signature was that of Gypsy O'Brien.

Working until vespers and then with my wife, poor wretch, to a public and talking for a moment to Joseph Urban, the Japan Cuneos of Chicago and Gene Crawley. And saw George Creel and had the usual start, always taking him for King Alfonso of Spain.

Temperament, as emotional volatility in the theatre, has about vanished. The nearest approach to such explosiveness was Chevalier when he first came to America. But he got over it. Certainly there is no one today on the boards whose dices suggest Mrs. Leslie Carter, Richard Mansfield, Leo Dietrichstein or the more recent Jeanne Eagels when ballooned into full blown pouts.

Perhaps the most temperamental of all in her hey-day was Fritz Scheff. She demanded and got more of the luxuries of trouping than any other person of her time. She was the true autocrat. Stage hands could not crumple while she was in the theatre. Whenever she came before members of the company or her manager they immediately jumped to their feet at attention.

Her salary—$1,600 a week—was the highest ever paid a comic opera star up to that time. She carried a portable dressing room with "Fritz" in electric lights over the door and which was placed near the wings so she would not have to walk up and down stairs. All her entrance ways were carpeted and expansive red rug was unrolled for her from the limousine to stage door. She traveled with her own automobile, chauffeur and footmen at the expense of her producer, then Charles B. Dillingham. Her cigarettes were of extraordinary length and gold tipped, imported by the cigaretteist to Czar Nicholas.

Miss Scheff in later years appeared in vaudeville and about two years ago her revival in "Mlle. Modiste" took on a flash of furor. Many predicted she would not only have an extended New York run but a long and successful tour. But neither materialized. Today Miss Scheff occupies an apartment in E. 58th street in the winter and a home in Connecticut in summer. She is 48, looking much younger, and has dropped the dynamic theatricalisms that made her stand out so vividly during her reign.

An uncertain cub on a certain paper in Cincinnati was sent to interview Miss Scheff at the old Havlin. She happened to be in the dining room with her manager Nat Roth. Approaching her he inquired: "Miss Scheff, I believe?" the legend goes. She gave him a quick glance, replied: "What you believe does not interest me" and went on talking to Roth. Miss Scheff told intimates in later years such stardom was put on like a glove and did not portray her real attitude toward the public. It was merely a part of her act.

Helen Morgan's cock-eyed style of coiffure—a disarray of frizzle and bangs—dates back to an unhappy period in childhood. She regarded herself as an ugly duckling and when neighborhood children primped and beribboned their hair, Miss Morgan just tousled hers with her hands and made faces at anyone who didn't like it. In time people began to comment on her "cute head-dress." She has never changed the style and it has proved one of the distinguishing trademarks of her millenium moments on Broadway.

I have a chrome of an aunt, taken 32 years ago, that many believe is Helen Morgan in costume. This was the aunt who expressed surprise by saying: "Law me, poo!"

The Stars Say —

For Tuesday, September 22

The stellar mutations for this day enjoin to caution and conservatism in the outlay of the substance, either in business channels or in the matter of personal indulgence or extravagance. With judicious use of the funds and a moderate and modest use of the faculties there may be some definite gain, especially in real property, through industry, application and persistence. Be careful in employment lest friction or demotion occur.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of some substantial benefit through their own hard efforts and fidelity as well as moderate ambitions. But there is menace through lavish or precarious use of funds or hasty decisions in investments. Be cautious in employment not to merit dismissal or censure. A child born on this day should have large ambitions with some solid degree of industry and persistence to attain its ends, but it should control a tendency to rash and ill-advised use of funds. It may do better on its own than in employment.

GUILFORD PARK

Editor of The News:
The Guilford picnic is over with. Labor day was fine weather but there was no big crowd as expected. There was plenty of refreshments for all, and a good time was had by all, maybe!

There was also a couple of gambling devices, where money changed hands freely and openly. I understood up until that time that gambling was against the law, but I must have been mistaken, as the law was looking on unconcerned. The nicest thing about the picnic this time, is the pleasant fact, that for once there were no political speeches or promises made. They either ran out or are saving them for next June or July.

Some time ago we read in The News, and also our court clerk told us, that this fall couple of carloads of fish would be put in the lake, but then some one mistook a natural spring to be a leak in the bank and reported his find to our state officials, with the result that the water was ordered to be let out. This, I reckon, is a good reason that there likely will be no fish this year, although the water is coming back fast. Also we read in The News that $37,500 is appropriated for more land and a cement apron on the bank, this money to be available in a little better than a month. It is a good while longer now, but there seems to be no hurry to take advantage of the same. In fact I was told by a reliable party that for the near future the outlook for the Guilford project is not very bright. The present land options will run out before long, and some I know will not renew. Now the paper states the Guilford road will be improved. I heard our C. C. intends to fix the road, where I live (that is the road some one wanted closed) but so far I have seen nothing except that the bridge is painted.

Now if this road and the Guilford road would be improved this fall and the state would go to work on the bank, my how people would enjoy themselves next summer, but I fear we will be doomed again to be disappointed. Lets hope for the best.

I am just speaking my opinion which I know don't amount to much, but seems to hold here fairly well.

ANDREW KUYPER.

.... no bamboozlin' about that!"

SURE! When a word fits, you know it! "Satisfy" just fits CHESTERFIELD. A smoker picks up a package, and he likes its neat appearance—no heavy inks or odors from ink. That satisfies him.

Then he examines a Chesterfield. It is well-filled; it is neat in appearance; the paper is pure white. And that satisfies him.

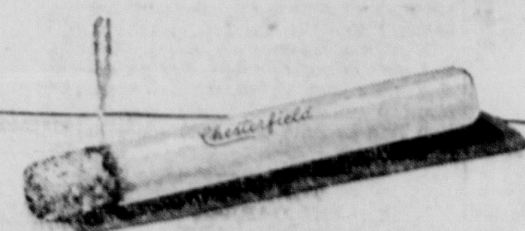

He lights up. At the very first puff he likes the flavor and the rich aroma. He decides that it tastes better—neither raw nor over-sweet; just pleasing and satisfying.

Then he learns it is milder. That's another way of saying that there is nothing irritating about it. And again he's satisfied!

PLAYING WITH FIRE

BY WILLIAM McLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Doris Silver, a dude ranch guest, is rescued from a runaway horse by a handsome stranger, much to the annoyance of her companion, Ransie Brennan. The stranger meets Lee Reynolds, owner of the dude ranch, and fixes a flat tire on her car. She hires him to help on the Lazy R ranch. When she notices Brennan, who is her foreman, his insolent manner infuriates her and she discharges him. When his threats fail to frighten her he forces his embraces on her.

INSTALMENT 5

T FOR TRUTHFUL

"I tell you to let me go, you fool!" Lee cried.

The man's kisses stung her cheeks, and lips, and throat. She did not spend her strength in resistance, though the groping fingers were like a fire. The anger in her face was steady, though she felt the pounding heart in her bosom.

"Stay back there. Don't move," she ordered, voice shrill with excitement.

"You've shot me, you hellion!" Lee became aware that some one was standing in the doorway, though her back was turned to it. A voice made itself heard, one pointedly interested and just a little amused.

"If I'm intruding just let me know," it said.

The young woman backed from the desk in order to be able to see the newcomer without lifting her gaze from Brennan.

"He says I've shot him," she panted, lips bloodless. "It's his own fault."

A brown faced man in worn, shiny leathers moved forward.

You told me to report to Mr. Brennan, ma'am and one of the boys said he was in here," he exclaimed.

"You don't have to report to him."

"I tell you to let me go, you fool."

He isn't foreman now," Miss Reynolds snapped. She was frightened at what she had done and the fear gave her voice the sharpness of anxiety. "Better see how much he is hurt. One of the boys will get a doctor."

"Or an undertaker, ma'am," the man in chaps suggested pleasantly. He was already convinced that the wound was not a very serious one.

"He isn't badly hurt, is he?" The question followed the statement forced from the girl by terror. Surely she had not killed the man.

"I reckon not, ma'am. Looks to me like a nice clean flesh wound. When I spoke I didn't know whether you were through with him."

"He made me do it. He struck my arm," Lee shuddered.

"That's a lie," Brennan flung back, showing his teeth.

"Sho! That's no way to talk to a lady," the cowpuncher admonished genially. "If you'd listened patient to the li'l boss she wouldn't have had to puncture one of your tires."

"Get out of my way, both of you," the ex-foreman roared. He walked, limping slightly, to the door. There he turned to shake a fist savagely at the owner of the Lazy R.

"See how far you get with this. You've bought trouble today that will last you long as you live."

The cowpuncher smiled. "Ideas don't seem to get across to you very well, Mr. Brennan. If I were in your place I'd gather, in a sort of a general way, that the lady was annoyed with me. I expect that's why she sent you the little pal, as a reminder that you were getting on her nerves. Time for you to say 'Adios.'"

For the second time Brennan felt the chill of ice traveling down his spine, of something menacing reaching toward him from the past which he had buried. It spoke out of the cold, steely eyes of the stranger. He was puzzled and turned by the strange warning.

What was there about this youth that set a bell tolling in him?

With a sound from his throat that was both an oath and a snarl, Brennan turned and left the office.

Lee dropped the revolver on the table and looked at her new rider. "He can't be badly hurt," she said, asking reassurance.

"Don't worry about that hombre. If he's not a bad egg the break was sure against him when he got that plug-ugly face. How come you to start the fireworks? Or is that none of my business?"

A tide of pink washed into her cheeks. "He... forgot himself," she said.

"Well, he won't forget you, ma'am, not right away. I didn't like that look he gave you before he left. I'd say he was a vindictive devil."

"What harm can he do me?"

"I don't know," he smiled. "But maybe you do."

She shook her head. "I don't see what he could do."

"Plenty if he sets out to get even."

She drew a deep breath. "Anyhow, I'm glad I didn't hurt him worse, even though it was his own fault."

"I reckon he had it coming."

"Maybe, but... Wouldn't it be awful to kill some one, not meaning to, and yet in anger?" The horror of the thing she had escaped stared at him out of her brown flecked eyes. All the arrogance had for the moment been shocked out of her. She was a child who had been playing with edged tools and had grazed the skirt of tragedy.

"Not so good," he agreed, looking into her blanched face. "But you needn't waste time over what might have been."

"No."

From her forehead she brushed back a tawny lock of wavy hair, a tawny gold shot through with copper. The gesture had its touch of boyishness, the frank unconsciousness of sex.

They heard the clump of boots. Dunc Daggett came into the office, his eyes big question marks. "Everything all right?" he panted.

"I shot Ransie," the girl answered.

The old fellow needed no explanation in justification. "Good for you," he cried in his high, shrill falsetto. "I'll bet he asked for it. Me, I never did take a smile to that moke. He's a bad outfit."

"I discharged him. He's not my foreman any more."

"I knew it had to come, Miss Lee. None too soon, I say. He's out there in the corral with hell in his neck, spillin' a mess of cuss words while Kansas runs him up his bronc. He can't rattle his hocks away from here any too fast to suit me. Got fresh with you, did he? Wish I'd been here with a six-gun in my hand."

"Let Buck take Brennan to town in a car. He ought not to ride. And see his leg fixed up before he goes. Even if we're through with him, I don't want him to fall off his horse on the way to town. This is our new rider, Dunc. His name is John Smith. He'll help you with the remuda at present. Kansas will go

Mixed Diet A Desirable One
Some time ago, in discussing high blood pressure, I told you about a report made regarding the health of Eskimos. These people live on an exclusive diet of meat. Yet, it is stated, Eskimos show no more high blood pressure or signs of kidney disease than do other races.

The wisdom of eating meat has always been under discussion. There is much controversy as to whether or not meat is harmful to the body.

It is claimed by some that by nature man is a vegetable eating not a meat eating animal. Nevertheless, no scientific proof of this statement has ever been made.

It is true, of course, that many persons thrive on a vegetable diet, perhaps more than when they eat meat. But these occasional cases are no proof that meat is harmful.

On the other hand, there are many who claim that meat, even if taken in large quantities, does no harm whatever. The health of the Eskimo shows this. Some go as far as to claim that meat can be used as an exclusive diet with marked advantage to health.

It seems to me that the answer to this problem is an individual one. Each of us must solve it for himself. It is certainly true that over-indulgence in any one food is not to be recommended. Some individuals will thrive when more vegetables are added to the diet. Others fail to respond to such a diet and are better if more meat is consumed.

There is no doubt that the ideal diet is a mixed one. By means of a mixed diet the body obtains all of the necessary requirements and substances so essential for health.

Meat plays a part in maintaining the normal mechanism of the body and is replaced by any other substance, and except with difficulty, cannot stances, it is also essential that the body have certain fruits and vegetables.

Let us not be narrow-minded about the eating habits of our friends. Certainly there is no scientific proof that a purely vegetable diet is superior to a meat diet. The logical thing is to conclude that a mixed diet is the desirable one.

Stressing the need of an intensive campaign to build up strong county farm bureaus and obtain appointment of more federal agents, the agricultural conference in Chicago admitted the importance of arousing farmers to support co-operative principals. Reel Romance

Lew Ayres, star of the motion picture "All Quiet on the Western Front," married Lola Lane, Hollywood screen player, at Las Vegas, Nev., the other day, and thus climaxed a reel romance. Don't they make a nice-looking couple?

Autumn Dresses Reminiscent of Grandma's Day

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Pert and piquant are feminine modes for autumn and winter, alluringly romantic and reminiscent of the days of our grandmothers.

But now that the first big fashion flurries are over, one is comfortably assured that the silhouette is not dangerously changed and that there are really only suggestions of bustles and crinolines on frocks that must be worn in subways and street cars—instead of fine coaches and carriages.

Husbands will have something to murmur about the day dresses with skin-tight bodies which fasten down the back with a few dozen closely set buttons. When they are worn with prim little fur capes and round muffs to match the little caps worn at a jaunty forward tilt, grandmother's portrait "when a child" immediately comes to life.

Puff sleeves and puffed elbows with the old-fashioned oblong silk-covered button, woolen frocks with rows of tucks on the skirts, coats with capes trimmed with bands of fur, a tight-fitting pack-trimmed with bands of fur and a stand-up collar, are more piquant period effects.

A quaint pinnate décolletage comes on an evening gown with stiffened epaulettes and lace yoke inset in the square neckline. Then there are little capes and capelettes, fur yokes made in one with the high collar of fur and rows of frills in fantastic movements.

Earthquake Rocks Sections of Japan

TOKYO, Sept. 21.—Tokyo and other sections of Central Japan were shaken severely by an earthquake at 11:20 a. m., today (9:20 p. m., Sunday, in Salem). The first report of casualties said nine persons had been killed, more than 100 injured and 20 houses destroyed in Saitama prefecture.

It was feared great damage was done in country to the north of the capital.

Ceilings and walls of some buildings cracked and fell in Tokyo. Chinaware shops suffered considerably. Persons rushed frantically into the streets.

Saitama Prefecture, where the shock apparently centered, was believed to have suffered greatest.

SCALLOPED DETAILS PATTERN 2187

As dainty as a frock could possibly be, yet extremely simple in detail. The scalloped collar, and scalloped joining of skirt flare and bodice finished with contrasting binding are becoming to the youthful figure. If the sleeves are omitted, the little dress would grace the nicest of parties. A wide choice of fabrics presents itself—in print or solid color—dimity, voile, lawn, batiste and crepe de chine. For hard wear challis or jersey would be practical.

Pattern 2187 is obtainable only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Steel sold up more than 3 points. Allied Chemical converted a 5 point loss into a 3-point gain. Gains of 1 to 2 points were numerous by midday.

Gas in the Stomach Is Dangerous

Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas in the stomach or a full bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach creating so-called "acid indigestion." Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and often affects the heart.

It is folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a little Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful or four tablets in water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloating out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. Adv

SALEM HIGH LOSES SEASON'S INAUGURAL TO CANTON MCKINLEY

Visitors Score Twice to Win 12-0 Verdict; Niles Here on Friday

A slow start and an equally slow finish spelled defeat for gridiron representatives of Salem High, embattled in their inaugural struggle with Canton McKinley High gladiators at Reilly athletic stadium Saturday afternoon.

In a contest far superior to the ordinary opening season encounter, the Red and Black, handicapped by injuries and prevalence of inexperienced gridirers in the lineup, displayed possibilities of the development of another strong aggregation—should certain weaknesses be perfected. McKinley's margin of victory was 12-0.

Salem Threatens Twice
Good football and bad football was displayed by Quakers but they were far from outclassed by the visiting Bulldogs who tallied through a powerful aerial attack in the opening period and an intercepted pass and flashy runs by a scintillating sophomore, Kovesci, in the fourth quarter.

Salem threatened to score twice during the battle. There was little brilliant football displayed by either eleven, play of Kovesci and Gottschall being featuring events for McKinley while Purn Sidinger and John French were Salem's leading lights. The Quakers exploited their finest football in the second and third periods when they completely outclassed the invading machine.

A powerful forward pass drive with John French and Ed Beck throwing was the means of scoring the majority of the Salem team's nine first downs. Manned with veterans in few positions, the Salemites nevertheless can't be condemned for their display of talent at any time. Plenty of possibilities for the formation of a successful gridiron machine were revealed to Coach Floyd Stone during the course of the defeat.

Play Niles Friday
These revelations—opening games, you know, are mainly experiments in which mentors seek to uncover promising players—are the factors through which Stone expects to register the school's first victory of the season Friday night when Niles High will be played under the Reilly stadium floodlights. An entirely different aggregation, perhaps not in name but in power, is expected to represent the Red and Black.

The contest opened with Canton kicking off to Salem, Papish receiving the ball and running it ten yards to the 25. The Quakers were forced to kick. Gordy Keyes left-footed the spherical 36 yards to Gottschall who returned it to mid-field. Canton started an end-running and pass attack to carry the ball to the 12-yard marker where Salem held and booted out of danger to Gottschall.

Canton launched another fierce touchdown attack with Kovesci playing the lead role. The sophomore flash dashed off

Stark Countians Annex Decisive Victory In Season's Opener

ALLIANCE, Sept. 21.—Scoring in every quarter but the last, Alliance High trounced East Palestine 20-7, in the inaugural game at the Mt. Union field Saturday.

Alliance's first marker in the opening session resulted from a fluke. Russell, their fullback, tumbled after the ball had been worked down to the 15-yard line, but Farmer recovered and pulled himself over for a touchdown. Pugh scored the extra point.

In the second quarter a long pass. Quinlan to Russell, placed the ball on East Palestine's eight-yard line. Quick plunger over for a marker and Pugh kicked the extra point.

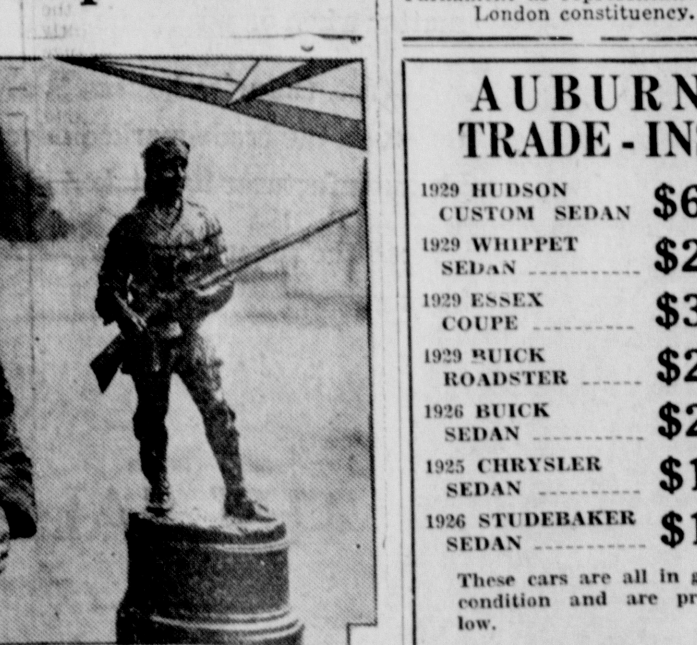

A 30-yard run through left tackle by Pyle, Alliance substitute, brought Alliance's final score in the third quarter. He failed in an attempt to kick the extra point.

East Palestine's marker resulted from a 30-yard pass. Ealy to Morgan, which placed the ball on Alliance's eight-yard line. On the next play Hulton plunger over for the touchdown. Goletic plunger over for the extra point.

TEAMS TO PLAY TWO GAMES AT REILLY FIELD

Board of Arbitration Selects Aggregation To Oppose Champions

CHRISTEN TO HURL OPENING CONTEST

Eddie Miller Will Pitch For Body-Makers; Players Listed

A hard-hitting all-star aggregation, selected by the board of arbitration, will oppose the Mullins Manufacturing corporation Foremen's club in the first of a two-game series at Reilly athletic stadium at 7:30 tonight. The second game will be played Wednesday night.

List 13 Players
The personnel of the all-star aggregation, selected after consideration of players from nine Salem Softball league teams, was announced Sunday by Joseph Reese and A. Earl Beardmore, who, with Mayor John M. Davidson, compose the league board. Thirteen players are listed.

Composed of two batters hitting over the 400-mark and six others holding season's averages of 300 or over, the all-stars present a clubbing aggregation that is expected to force the fast-stepping Mullins outfit to the limit. Lee Christen and George Early will oppose the body-makers' ace, Sam Watkins and Eddie Miller in the games.

Miller United Cigars ace, was awarded to Mullins to hurl tonight's game in the absence of Watkins who will attend the meeting of the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten Interscholastic Athletic League. Watkins, however, will hurl Wednesday's game.

Christen has been selected to hurl the opening contest tonight with Early being billed for Wednesday's fracas. No game will be played Tuesday night, members of the Mullins team being guests of C. C. Gibson at a banquet.

Hard Hitting Team
The infield to oppose Mullins will be composed of Ted Scott, first base, hitting .280 the past season; Joe Kelley, 2b, .382; M. Sartick, ss, .302; Frank Scullion, 3b, .420; P. Schuller ss, .384; Cecil Scullion, 421, Cloyd Miller 302 and Pete Sanders, 303, outfield.

Harry Vincent, selected as captain will play catch. Vincent held a .352 average during the past season. As utility players there have been picked Twing Seeds and Homer Veon.

Here are the way the two teams will lineup tonight:

All Stars
F. Schuller, ss; Fitzpatrick, lf; Scott, 1b; Horton, rss; Kelley, 2b; Campbell, 3b; P. Scullion, 3b; Bolen, lf; C. Scullion rf; Older, rf; Sanders, mf; Dorehek, ss; Sartick, ss; Rafferty, c; Vincent, c; Myers, 2b; Miller, lf; Debnar, mf; Christen, p; Miller, p.

Louisville Defeats Sebring Eleven, 6-0

SEBRING, Sept. 21.—Victory on the wings of a forward pass came to the Louisville High gridirers Saturday as they defeated Sebring High 6-0.

Aside from a snappy toss, Caldwell to Dewell, in the third quarter which resulted in a touchdown for Louisville the contest was lacking in excitement. Dewell ran 10 yards for the touchdown. Menster failed to get through the line for the extra point.

George Early and Ray Reasback, Salem, officiated the game, the former as referee and the latter as umpire.

LISBON BATTLES TO NO-DECISION

Columbiana High Eleven Holds County Seat Team Scoreless

LISBON, Sept. 21.—A plucky Columbiana High gridiron eleven battled a heavier Lisbon High aggregation to a scoreless draw in a well played grid encounter that marked the inauguration of the season for both teams here Saturday.

At no time was either team within the opponent's 20-yard line play being confined to mid-field most of the time. A passing attack by the visitors rushed the pigskin to the 26-yd. stripe in the second period but the hometowners braced and held for downs.

Columbiana held the edge again in the third period but the Blue and White staged a brilliant comeback in the final quarter to carry the ball to the visitors' 22-yd line before being stopped.

Liner's Weakness for Rocks

The ill-fated Panama mail liner Colombia, now helpless, deserted and wave-battered on the rocky reef of Santa Marguerita Island, off the coast of Southern California, is here shown as she appeared last November following a less serious but similar grounding off Staten Island, New York. The Colombia has had three accidents in seven years. Her 130 passengers and crew of 100 were taken aboard the liner La Perla for transportation to Los Angeles.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Little Bathroom Conveniences.
"Why is it that a medicine chest is never big enough?" demanded Marcie, as she despairingly surveyed the pile of cartons and boxes she had just excavated from the bathroom closet. "I buy so few drugs, only the essentials, and yet, just look at this!"
Worst of all, there were ever so many duplicate objects. Several bottles of iodine and other small first aids. Half used medicines, relics of last Winter's illnesses, and yet useless though they were, somehow they had never been disposed of.
To be really useful, the bathroom medicine chest should contain only the drugs and toilet accessories that are really used regularly. Occasional drugs—medicaments used only in case of exceptional illness, can be stored in separate closets, but they do not belong in that small row of shelves that are in daily use. The fewer the articles in the bathroom medicine chest, the greater the convenience.

China Razor Cabinet
Consider the needs of the average man—a whole shelf for shaving equipment is essential. And incidentally, it should be the high shelf—out of reach of exploring little fingers if such there be in the household.
One of the newer conveniences is the china razor cabinet which costs but a small sum—one dollar for the plain china in white and more for the more ornate affairs. It consists of a china box, grooved to hold a razor in the middle. At one side is a compartment to hold fresh blades. At the other is a slot into which used blades can be dropped. They fall out of sight, out of reach in the bottom of the china box. Eventually they can be emptied and thrown away. But this is a quick and safe disposal method for daily use.

Two Pacific Fliers Arrive In Alaska

NOME, ALA., Sept. 21. — Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen, California fliers who failed in an attempt to make a non-stop flight from Japan to America and were missing for several days in the North Pacific, arrived here last night after a flight of about 600 miles from Mianio Pilgino, Siberia.

Moyle and Allen said they had flown in Siberia and asserted they were unable to obtain aviation gasoline used Diesel engine fuel to fly across the Bering sea to Nome. They said they burned a hole in the exhaust pipe of their plane but that otherwise it was in good condition.

The fliers said they would remain here today to work on their plane and attend receptions.

The fliers left Samushiro beach, Japan, Sept. 7, with a heavy load of gasoline, announcing they expected to make a 4,465 mile non-stop flight to Seattle. Nine days later they turned up at Mianio, Pilgino, after having been picked up on a little island off the Siberian coast by a Russian ship.

Chicago's next radio-electrical show is to be a combination public and trade exhibition and is to be held there the week of January 18, 1932.

In previous years the show has been held in October about four weeks after the New York show, but a change in plans was made this year at the request of major set manufacturers. It was felt that the new arrangement would better meet present economic conditions.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland are to speak when the unveiling of a bust of Roger Brooke Taney, chief justice prior to the Civil war, is broadcast from in front of the courthouse at Frederick, Md., by WEA-FBC, Sept. 26.

THEATER Attractions

"MERELY MARY ANN" is the State theater's offering today. Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are co-starring in this appealing story.

Miss Gaynor is more wistful and charming than ever as the repressed little maid-of-all-work in the dingy London rooming house, who shyly falls in love with the clever but impecunious composer, played by Charles Farrell. Their delightful romance, with its vivid moments of sheer pathos, is one of the most appealing stories ever to reach the speaking screen.

Beryl Mercer as the shrewish, suspicious tyrant of a landlady, Arnold Lucy as the dignified vicar, G. P. Huntley, Jr., as Farrell's old-time friend, head the supporting cast with four splendid performances. Jules Furthman has done a noteworthy piece of work in adapting the Israel Zangwill play to the screen, and the picture is a triumph in every respect.

"GUILTY HANDS" is the feature today at the Grand theater.

Here is the last word in mystery thrillers, written for the screen by Bayard Veiller, master dramatist. Into it he has injected the weirdest plot he ever conceived. It is grand entertainment, baffling and startling from start to finish. Lionel Barrymore, who recently contributed a splendid performance to "A Free Soul," has the central role.

The picture concerns a veteran prosecutor and criminal attorney. He has sent men to the electric chair and saved others from it. He finds himself obliged to kill a wealthy client to spare his own daughter an ugly disgrace. His astuteness enables him to make the crime appear a suicide. But a jealous woman discovers his secret only to be silenced by his threat to place her in the electric chair instead of himself.

Kay Francis and Madge Evans play the leading feminine roles and the splendid supporting cast includes William Bakewell, C. Aubrey Smith, Polly Moran and Alan Mowbray.
